What is the problem?

It's hard for foreigners, locals, and professionals with similar preferences to meet each other and practice languages

Studying language in the classroom may be inefficient

It's hard to find people who you can trust to practice a language

Conclusion

Matching people to practice a language can be frustrating.

Testimonials

Caroline: I stopped taking Spanish courses at IE Business School because I did not find I was able to learn the language well among so many other students

Julia: I wanted to practice with people I could trust outside of the classroom.
